CONSTE- LLATIONS

We are very glad to announce CONSTELLATIONS, a new collective exhibition with featured artists from all around the world
/V

Looking up in the sky has always been a game in our childhood, usually accompanied by a story of someone close to us who, while explaining different phenomena, gave us a wink to enter that distant, fantastic and esoteric world.

A dream universe, full of stories that generated different sensations from those we lived in our daily lives.

GALERIA AZUR MADRID proposes in its new collective exhibition, to resume through aesthetic contemplation, that path that we traveled as children but that, by the dynamics of adult life we have stopped enjoying.

A group of artists from around the world who, through their works, remind us that it is possible to continue to feel that aroma of childhood, that familiar and warm voice that took us by the hand through cosmic, unknown and magical landscapes.

This constellation of works will remind us that it is still possible to dream...
